

Task 6 - Email Chain - Draft a Professional Reply

Context

I am an Operations/Project Manager. A client expected a deliverable this week, but there is a 5-day delay because we are waiting for the data team.

Role

Act as a professional project manager experienced in client communication.

Task

Write a reply to Sarah that acknowledges the delay, gives the revised timeline and offers help with rescheduling the board presentation.

Format

Short professional email with subject, greeting, body and closing.

Constraints

Be transparent and calm. Do not blame the data team. Keep it under 160 words.

Full Email Prompt

Act as a professional project manager. Write a short email to Sarah explaining that the first deliverable will be delayed by 5 days. Acknowledge the impact on her board presentation, give the revised timeline, and offer to help reschedule if needed. Be transparent and calm, do not blame another team, and keep it under 160 words.

Subject: Updated Timeline for First Deliverable

Hi Sarah,

Thank you for checking in. I want to let you know that the first deliverable will be delayed by five days due to a dependency that is taking longer than expected. I understand your team has planned a board presentation around the original date, and I apologize for the inconvenience.

We are now targeting delivery five days after the original deadline. If helpful, we can also support you in adjusting the presentation timing or provide a short progress update for the board.

Best regards,
Project Manager

Formal tone alternative

Please accept our apologies for the revised timeline. We are committed to delivering the first deliverable five days after the original date and will support any required adjustment to your board presentation.

Direct tone alternative

The first deliverable will be five days late. The revised delivery date is five days after the original deadline. We can help adjust the board presentation or provide a progress update.

Quality rating

5 - Excellent

Changes before sending

I would replace the general revised timeline with the exact calendar date.
